

adventure activities - beamingbooks - adventure activities backyard adventure going on grand adventures doesn't have to mean taking big vacations. in fact, some of the greatest adventures happen when we take time to discover the world right around us. choose a day when the whole family can spend two hours visiting a local park, forest preserve, beach, or any natural spot nearby. challenge one another to notice the wild, weird ...

outdoor adventure in promoting relationships with nature - taking groups into wild places can only be justified in pursuit of more environmentally sympathetic understanding (martin, 1993a). however, what may be lacking in the greening of outdoor education are programmes which enhance environmental connectedness, yet retain the potency of adventure-based learning which has for so long endeared students and teachers to outdoor education as a viable ...
